

Peter Ellis

Peter Ellis is a Human Resource consultant based in Sydney who specialises in Leadership Assessment and Executive Coaching in the Asia Pacific region. His current client base includes multi-national organizations from Asia, Europe and the US across various industrial sectors including engineering, manufacturing and construction and project management businesses. He has completed assessment and coaching assignments for local employees and expatriates at senior, mid management and high potential levels in India, Thailand, Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, China, the Middle East, the United States and Australia. Prior to this Peter held senior Human Resource management positions for over twenty years for the Swiss based ABB group including Vice President for Asia Pacific based in Hong Kong and earlier as Country Human Resource Manager for Australia.

Peter uses an outcomes-focused assessment and coaching approach with structured or more flexible formats to fit the level of management and the desired outcomes. Coaching engagements are usually conducted over a relatively short period (usually 6 months), and designed around achieving tangible change in specific development areas. Peter has developed a unique coaching model combining face to face and telephone (remote) coaching. He travels regularly and using this model is able to provide ongoing support to managers across the region.

He has a Bachelor of Commerce and has completed his Executive Coaching training through the Institute of Executive Coaching in Sydney.
